Hear Your Angels

When I was in the beginning years of my career as a physical therapist, I heard a talk on angels and my life purpose. I had been looking for a better way to be in control in my life and that program was the first step. After doing the follow-up techniques, I had personal experiences that assisted me to be a better health care provider but most importantly, to be a better me.

Until then, I felt that I did not know how to be my own best friend and was seeking outside for approval and acceptance. Being able to communicate with my team of angels changed all of that. I no longer felt alone and I felt that I could be solution orientated rather than problem orientated. Later, marrying my soul mate, which my angels helped me to find, I found that I had the confidence to step into the role of mother. Having 24/7 help via angels in child rearing was invaluable. I have since sought to share with others that they have angels also and that they can have direct clear two-way communication with their angels and live their unique purpose.

I now show people the same easy to do techniques that I learned to connect with my spiritual helpers in a practical way. I present an initial 90 min interactive program on Angels, You, and the Universe, $15, sponsored by the Inner Peace Movement International, a non-profit educational program.
